

MISSION AUTOMOTIVE

ARMED FORCES ENGAGEMENT FOR THE UK AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY

Former Marine utilises initiative to transfer sea-faring skills to the automotive industry.

Alistair Bradie's Story

- Having served as a Landing Craftsman in HM Royal Marines, Alistair completed operational duties in Northern Ireland, completed an overseas posting to Gibraltar and even completed time on the commando display team.
- Injured whilst on a deployment on HMS Bulwark in 2014 having been recommended for promotion to Sergeant, Alistair was medically discharged in 2017.
- With vast experience in boating, Alistair attained the MCA Master certificate of competence whilst studying for a NVQ level 3 in Light vehicle repair and maintenance with aspirations to work within motorsport and the automotive industry, his real passion.
- Having successfully passed his NVQ, Alistair began working for a small limited company working on project cars.

“Since a young age I have always had a keen interest in cars, motorbikes and motorsport but given my career path in the military I only owned cars and motorbikes and didn't think I would be able to transition to the industry until I came across Mission Motorsport's employment initiatives”
